Society Chairman

Happy New Year to you all!

As we start another year, lets hope this year will be full of hope, optimism and new beginnings.

On the whole sales were successful with averages up on the previous year despite restrictions being enforced. I therefore urge breeders to maintain high health status and continue to register gimmer lambs, as demand for quality stock is high.

We are all hoping that Shows and Open Days will go ahead as normal this year, and look forwards to meeting and greeting friends and fellow breeders in a more relaxed manner.

Wishing everyone a successful year to come.

Society President

Llywydd y Gymdeithas

Daeth hi'n amser unwaith eto i ysgrifennu pwt i'r blwyddlyfr.

Yn gyffredinol, mae hi wedi bod yn flwyddyn heriol arall gyda rheolau a chyfyngiadau COVID yn newid bron yn ddyddiol. Er gwaethaf hyn, llwyddwyd i gynnal Cyfarfod Blynnyddol 2021 yn Tewkesbury yn yr Hydref. Mor braf oedd cael cwrdd wyneb yn wyneb yn hytrach na thrwy gyfrwng zoom. Bu'n benwythnos difyr a hwyllog a'r sgwrsio yn llifo. Diolch i'r rhai fu'n ymwneud â'r trefniadau.

Mawr obeithiwn y cawn gynnal y Cyfarfod Blynnyddol eleni yng Nogledd Cymru ac edrychwn ymlaen i'ch croesawu am benwythnos yng Ngwesty Victoria, Llanberis.

Llwyddwyd i gynnal holl arwerthiannau arferol y Gymdeithas a chafwyd prisiau calonogol-gwell na'r disgwyl. Unwaith eto ni allaf or-bwysleisio pwysigrwydd cefnogi yr arwerthiannau hyn er mwyn parhâd i'r Gymdeithas.

Hoffwn ddiolch o galon i Gwenda, Heather, Arfon a Sian, aelodau'r cyngor a'r is bwyllgorau, am eu gwaith di-flino drwy'r flwyddyn a'r cwbl er budd y Gymdeithas. Mae'n fraint cyd-weithio gyda hwy a gwerthfawrogn gyfraniad pob un ohonynt.

Terfynaf drwy ddiolch unwaith eto i chwi'r aelodau am fy ethol yn Lywydd. Rwyf yn ei theimlo'n fraint i barhau i'ch gwasanaethu. Gobeithiaf y caf weld llawer ohonoch yn y sioeau a'r seli eleni.

It's time once again to welcome the yearbook into our homes.

Overall it has been another challenging year with COVID rules and restrictions changing almost daily. Despite this, the 2021 AGM was held in Tewkesbury in the Autumn. It was so nice being able to meet face to face rather than by zoom. It was an interesting and much enjoyed weekend with conversation flowing. Thank you to those involved in these arrangements.

We sincerely hope to hold this year's AGM in North Wales and look forward to welcoming you for a weekend at the Victoria Hotel, Llanberis.

All of the Society's usual sales were held and prices were encouraging – better than expected. Again I cannot over-emphasise the importance of supporting these livestock markets to ensure the future of the Society.

I would like to sincerely thank Gwenda, Heather, Arfon and Sian, Council and sub committee members for their tireless work throughout the year for the benefit of the Society. It is a privilege to work with them and we value the contribution of each and every one of them.

I conclude by thanking you the members for electing me once more as President. I feel privileged to continue to serve you. I hope to see many of you at the shows and sales this year.

2021 saw a slight move to normality (whatever that is). Zoom however still remained a useful tool in bringing people together. As North Wales Club Secretary Sarah Greig notes "Several Zoom meetings were held over the year, some were for club business and other specifically for socialising purposes." Midlands, North Wales, North & East of England, Northern Ireland, Southern Ireland, Scottish & Borders, South Wales, Southern and West Country Clubs all held club meetings via Zoom. The Scottish & Borders Club report holding a successful online presentation with Neil & Debbie McGowan after winning Sheep Farmer of the Year, they discussed their flock and the history of the Lleyn. While Will Roobottom provided tips on social media and online promotion in another presentation later in the year. The West Country Club had a very active year with five presentations held. Other clubs were invited and joined them. These presentations included Lameness Research by Caroline Best, Harpers Adams University, Iceberg Disease in Sheep by Laura Taylor, How Sweet are Your Pastures by Helen Mathieu, Understanding Genetic Process within the Lleyn Breed and Abortion in Sheep and Current Risks. Taking it a step further the Scottish & Borders held their first 'hybrid' meeting hence some were on Zoom and some were in the room. Considering the large area in which the club covers this could be useful in bringing people together in the future, a few teething problems that technology will resolve should make this more possible. The Zoom presentations and meetings have proved a cost and time efficient way to share information and I am sure we will see more clubs continue with this in 2022.

West Country Club Flock Competition Winners

The West Country Club saw a lift in summer shows. Paul & Sarah Eckett took the breed championship at Devon County Show. Okehampton breed Champions were Darren & Sarah Searle. Bill & Suzanne Harper won the Group, then the Group of Three Interbreed Championship saw them shortlisted. Young handler Freya Glessing came first at the Winter Fair at the Royal Cornwall Showground.

The Scottish & Borders report a successful Westmorland Show with the Geldard Family taking the champion position and Dugdale Family reserve. The Balmoral Show was delayed until September and with no sheep classes but the Northern Ireland Club put a display of sheep forward to showcase the breed.

A couple of clubs held flock competitions. See the results reported below:

North Wales Club

Judges: Richard, Ann, John & Llan Williams

Large Flock Champion – Dewi Ellis (547)

Small Flock Champion – Robin & Rhys Davies (1167)

West Country Club

Best Newcomer: Rachel Bromage

Best Ewe Lamb: Darren & Sarah Searle

Best Ram Lamb: Paul & Sarah Eckett

Champion Flock: Paul & Sarah Eckett. Reserve Bill & Suzanne Harper

Other activities included the Scottish & Borders Club making use of Facebook by running a feature each Monday which detailed the profile of a different breeder. Titled 'Members Monday' it proved very popular.

South Wales enjoyed a club visit alongside the Beef Shorthorn and North Country Cheviot Breed Societies. They viewed the farm of Gareth & Catrin Price, an upland farm in the shadows of the Black Mountains in the Brecon Beacons.

The West Country Club celebrated 30 years with an anniversary dinner in September. Club Chairman Bill Harper presented Cathy Evans, Club Secretary with a momentum to recognise 25 years of service to the club. Paul & Sarah Eckett won the Little Thriverton Trophy for most points at West County Shows. They also ran a couple of photo competitions which proved popular.

South Wales were able to hold their Annual Dinner for the first time in two years so they presented the flock competition trophies from 2020.

The Midlands Club hosted the Society for the AGM in Tewkesbury organising a weekend of light hearted entertainment.

Southern Ireland - Dillagh Lleyn, Flock 2419 - 26th June

An extremely well attended day was had at the home of Dillagh Lleyn Sheep for the bi annual Southern Ireland Lleyn Sheep Open Day. Opening proceedings. Host David Beattie gave an in-depth introduction about his farm set up and how he sees massive benefits with the Lleyn to his farming structure.

Following this, local Vet Finbar Kiernan gave an open and to the point, outlay of his own benefits in working with the Lleyn along with a broad informative overview relating to the health do's and don'ts with today's sheep farming industry. Both David and Finbar took questions from the floor. On show was the newly constructed sheep shed, pens of registered breeding rams and hogget ewes, with various pens of crossbred lambs from pure bred Lleyn ewes.

An abundance of delicious refreshments was readily available throughout the day for the visitors, who had travelled far and wide.

A farm walk followed in the newly reseeded paddocks. Lush green grass and the main flock of 300 breeding females and lambs were in all their glory in the afternoon sunshine. Again discussions were had on the benefits of the Lleyn for the farm output and the high number of lambs at foot down to the prolificacy of the breed. Visitors were then entertained to a superb show of sheep dogs working with the sheep.

Further refreshments and the draws for the prize winners of the day were announced.

The Southern Ireland Lleyn Club would like to thank all the visitors and people who helped in any way to make the day a big success.

There was a very high interest in the breed from existing breeders and new farmers looking to source breeding Lleyn stock.

All support is very appreciated.

Thank you to David Beatty along with his wife Orlaith and two daughters Ada and Enya.

North Wales - Rhosymadoc Flock—Sunday 1st August 2021.

Typical Paddocks

Roger at Work

Tommy the teaser

The Club originally arranged to visit the Rhosymadoc in 2020 after a very successful showing season for the Jones family during 2019. Their runaway success that year was led by a homebred ewe by Tacho Draig. The many championships taken during the 2019 season included breed champion at the Great Yorkshire Show, reserve female at Royal Welsh and breed champion at Anglesey Show (followed by reserve interbreed). After this success, it was only right that we landed on them for a flock visit.

There were still some COVID restrictions in place, but this did not stop a good turnout throughout the afternoon. On farm, we were presented with paddocks full of sheep, all in accessible areas in proximity to the farmhouse and yard. The farm itself is in a small hamlet near to Wrexham within the Welsh Marches. Pentre Farm extends over some seventy acres, with around seven acres being turned over to oats and four acres to spring barley, both of which are then added to bought in base feed mixes for the stock. Additional to this, there is a separate block of eight acres owned a few miles down the road. Additional grazing/mowing land is rented.

Unlike most farm visits, this was an on-foot and self-navigated tour through the surrounding paddocks. There were some 150 registered Lleyn ewes, 40 pedigree Beltex ewes and 40 pedigree Dutch Spotted (DS) ewes. In addition there was also a number of pedigree rams from each breed. A small number of Lleyn cross ewes added to the variety and the famously huge 'Tommy the Teaser,' completed the set up. We were fortunate as the time of visit meant that both Beltex and DS sheep were ready for various impending sales. We were pleased to see the Lleyn set into age groups and the two stock rams Tacho Draig (Champion ram Ruthin sale in 2015) and Bronallt Henry (Reserve champion at Ruthin sale in 2019 - but had been Champion at the Flint and Denbighshire show that year under Siân's judging) both close at hand. Both the Lleyn and DS lambs had previously featured on the Breeder's Diary section of the Society website.

All the breeds are sold through their respective Society sales at Welshpool, Carlisle, Ross-on-Wye and Ruthin. A number of animals are sold directly from the farm. This year Roger and Gill are expecting a delivery of imported Dutch Spotted Sheep that will add to their current flock plus provide a few for on farm purchasers.

After the farm tour, we settled down for an excellent spread of food and other refreshments. Gill and her team provided essentially a summer carvery, we were very well catered for. The main shed had also been turned into a tabled café and there was plenty of time to catch up with friends that we had been unable to see up to then due to the raft of summer show cancellations. A stock judging competition had been arranged for both Lleyn and Beltex yearling ewes as well as DS ram lambs. There were edible prizes for those who agreed with the two guest (and of course expert) judges. To finish the day, various North Wales Lleyn Breeders club members had bought homemade cakes which were then served for afternoon tea.

It was good to see the three very different breeds and the Jones's had made us all feel very welcome. It was a lovely touch to have the stock judging too, this allowed us to get up close and personal to some of their stock. The North Wales Lleyn Breeders club would like to thank Roger, Gill and Siân for their warm hospitality.

West Country - Lovaton Farm - Sunday 8th August 2021.

Ewes at Lovaton Farm

'Really different and thought provoking.' Eighty visitors from all over the South West (and Wales) had an informative and interesting time at Lovaton Farm on the northern fringes of Dartmoor. Despite early downpours, the weather sorted itself out - ideal conditions for the farm tour.

Jane Barber explained that 'back in 1995 the farm was stocked with Beulah ewes then in 2007, started crossing with Lleyn. She began to change the focus of enterprise towards production of quality meat and meat boxes, all with the highest standards of care for the livestock and a strong environmental focus - managing the land in a sustainable manner that protects and enhances the environment.'

'The breeds of stock were chosen for the quality of their meat. The beef is Dexter crossed with North Devon (Red Ruby), giving delicious, well marbled, succulent meat. The Gloucester Old Spot pork has the most amazing crackling and the Lleyn lambs are raised from birth on grass/clover/herbal swards. Customers receive the highest quality traditionally-reared meat, with complete traceability from field to fork. Working with husband Simon and son Callum, they process and sell meat from their own 100 lambs, 80-90 pigs and 40 beef cattle each year, selling all around UK.'

This 'Lovaton Approach' has been successfully validated by the incredible number of awards that they have received (over 80 and increasing every year). Focusing on lamb, 6 Gold medals have been won from Food Drink Devon and Taste of the West. In addition, in 2018 and 2019, Hogget Shoulder and Hogget Leg from Lovaton won Three Stars from the (international) Great Taste Awards (less than 1% of entrants achieve 3*).

Over many years, Jane and family have increased the Lleyn component of their commercial ewes, 'putting the best ewes to Lleyn rams and retaining as replacements ewe lambs from ewes giving twins. Poorer ewes are put to a Charollais ram. The lambing percentage is normally around 180%'. We saw a really good bunch of strong, stretchy ewes and Jane explained that she selects using a '3 strikes and you're out' with regards to feet. Also cull for teeth, udder, and prolapse and the 'awkward sheep' too.

The ewe lambs were put to the ram last autumn and averaged 100% lambing. In order to avoid over-large lambs and potential lambing difficulties, ewe lambs carrying singles were given no extra/hard feed. The bunch looked really bonnie. One visitor commented that 'they looked strong, long and roomy, would like to take some home.'

The pigs are free range and the cattle were extremely uniform and impressive, with excellent toplines and conformation. A new venture is the "pop up campsite" which is proving to be successful.

Back for tea - a wonderful spread, with the almost-forgotten buzz of farmers discussing their successes and failures and what the future holds. Richard Turner, judge of the lambs, spoke about how Lleyn genetics have played such a positive role at Lovaton.

Bill Harper, Club Chairman, thanked Jane and her family for such an interesting day and juggling it with their busy farming, butchery and selling activities, not to mention running their holiday let, B&B and carpentry businesses. Anyone wanting to learn more about the Lovaton farm enterprise should go to www.lovatonfarmmeat.co.uk.

2021 AGM - Tewkesbury

Although the AGM was held in a formal setting, the atmosphere was relaxed and friendly. This year it was hosted by the Midlands Lleyn Breeders Club. The group were based at The Hilton Puckrup Hotel, Tewkesbury for the weekend. A large hotel with plenty of facilities, good food and company.

Saturday saw members left to their own devices with some visiting cider mills or spirit distilleries. Others took in the sites including visit to Broadway whilst some visited friends. Some took the chance to relax at a slower pace and enjoy the calm ambience of the hotel which had a spa, golf course, beautiful walks as well as restaurant and bar.

Saturday evening brought the business to the fore with a Special AGM to confirm the update of the Society rules. The elections saw Mr Wynne Davies re-elected as President and Mr John Geldard as Vice President. The Council membership saw Mr Arfon Hughes, Mrs Phyl Hale, Mr James Barrow, Mr Derek Bond and Mr David Knowles each re-elected for another term.

It was agreed to leave the annual membership fee at £30 (€42).

The presentation of awards saw the following results:

Barnard Cup – E & D Jones

Lleyn Sheep Society's Cup – JA & R Geldard & Sons

Morgan Evans Cup – DW Ellis

Roseland Cup – E & D Jones

Lleyn Wen Cup – JA & R Geldard & Son & T & B Fort

The Champion of the Photo Competition was announced as Andrew Kennedy Flock 1618. Sponsored by JG Animal Health, the champion and all class winners all received vouchers.

Michael Miller and Meurig Williams rounded off the business with the vote of thanks.

Further business in the Special Council Meeting saw Mr John Dugdale re-elected for a third term as Society Chairman. Mrs Bethan Vaughan was elected as Vice Chairman. Mr David Knowles continues as Treasurer.

The Annual Dinner took place in the Gloucester Suite. Will Probert, auctioneer at Ross on Wye entertained with some amusing stories about himself. This was followed by a Dolly Parton tribute act who had members young and a bit older dancing the night away!!!

A huge thank you to the Midlands Club Members for hosting a great AGM weekend. The one we

Meeting Requirements for Producing Profitable Prime Lambs

AW Watson, Williamwood, Lockerbie, Dumfriesshire, Scotland Flock 2326

Working ewes

Alister Watson farms at Williamwood, Kirtlebridge, Lockerbie, on his parents 300 acre farm where a Lleyn flock of breeding sheep is key to this progressive young farmer's success. The farm is a low-lying unit with a Lleyn flock of 250 breeding ewes, 80 ewe lambs and 15 tup lambs.

The land is wet heavy clay soil, winters are tough and rain seems persistent. The farm however stands droughts in the summer very well and when the weather does warm up grass grows well.

Rotational paddock type grazing is used for the sheep and reseeded is done using high energy dairy type grass varieties, after reseeding all lambs are finished on the clean grazing.

Alister said "after leaving college and moving from the east to the west our old stratification system of Blackies and Mules didn't fit and replacements were having to be bought in annually and I wanted to start up a self-replacing flock of sheep. I had considered many breeds but the Lleyn seemed to suit the farm perfectly by being both hardy, maternal, and having the ability to be crossed with any terminal sire. The Lleyn also possesses longevity and a 7/8 crop ewe is not unheard of in the flock.

Recording plays a huge part of Alister's sheep business, he said "if you don't measure you cannot manage effectively as many decisions are made from recorded data. I record everything including body condition score of the ewes, weights of ewes and lambs, carcass conformation and killing out percentage of progeny, desirable traits and less desirable traits such as bad feet. All lambs are tagged weighed and recorded at birth, they are then weighed at 6 weeks when they are in for their first clostridial vaccination and then after each time they are in for treatments or selecting prime lambs. Ewes are also weighed at weaning and pre tugging. Alister commented “between 2017 and 2020 I have been able to reduce average days to slaughter by 52 days by selecting for desirable traits, this means for every 100 lambs this equates to an astonishing 5200 days less on farm, this has reduced grazing pressure and a knock on effect we have more available grass for ewes to achieve full condition pre tugging. As fertiliser and other inputs rise significantly, I can see efficient ewes such as the Lleyn become more popular as they lend themselves very well to many farming systems. Health planning is very important and Alister works very closely with his local vet (Dryfe Lockerbie) and MSD to ensure the health of animals is as good as possible. All the sheep and lambs are in the CORE vaccination program with MSD which has driven ewe performance by reducing overall mortality and has ensured the flock stays well below national average.

Eight year old ewe with seventh set of twins

Lleyn Ewe with Berrichon lambs

Over the past 12 years of having Lleyn, Alister has tried many different tups for producing prime lambs. He single sires each group for management reasons. Breeds used include Abermax, NZ Suffolk, Texel, Beltex, Berrichon, and Charmoise. Data is collected to compare tups and over the years it has found some breeds may gain a premium for a prime lamb but they also may have a higher mortality through a whole host of variable reasons so realistically the premium gained has been lost due to less lambs on the ground. At the moment Alister uses a Berrichon on ewe lambs for an easy lambing, and fast-growing prime lambs and uses a Beltex on the “B ewes” which for whatever reason are not good enough to go to the pure tup. Alister commented “I feel I prefer having a small B group rather than selling them as draft ewes as they still do a job but just don’t have the desirable traits for a higher quality breeding female.

The Lleyn Tup is used to produce replacement females with 70 plus ewes put to the tup. Over the years Alister has selected the ultimate sheep for his farm and he intends to sell some gimmers, ewe lambs and shearling tups in 2022 after many years of development.

Ewes get only silage with additional molasses depending on silage quality until 6/8 weeks prior to lambing, they are then housed. Sometimes they are housed from January it all depends on the field conditions, this also ensures the ewes get a break from parasites and gives the fields a rest. Post lambing the ewes get a concentrate in the field until there is enough grass to sustain the ewes needs then just grass as the Lleyn can easily rear the lambs on grass alone all lambs are also finished of grass.

Crossbred lambs are all sold dead weight through Farmstock Scotland, prime lambs start from 96 days old and are all sold before the tups go back out in October. Alister said by selling them with Farmstock Scotland “I can rely on them to market my prime lambs ensuring they go to the best possible abattoir and receive the best price on the day. I also like having individual grades and weights that I can use to determine kill out percentage and make management decisions.”

When purchasing a Lleyn ram Alister prefers to buy recorded tups either by Lleyn Gold or Signet. Alister said “I feel you get to see how the tups will ultimately complement the ewes they will serve. I look for naturally done tups with good size and conformation. Conformation and size is important to me as that’s what we all get paid for as prime lamb producers.”

Alister purchases replacements from Carlisle Lleyn Society Sale, as it is thirty minutes down the road and he can guarantee there will be a strong show of stock to pick from. Foundation ewes came from Carlisle bred by breeders Laneside, Poledean, Anston, Incheoch and Goldie. Some were bought by data driven decisions and others for style.

Alister said “breeds develop and adapt and the Lleyn has certainly done this especially in the last 20 years. Between 2012 and 2020 the Lleyn national population has risen by 29,000 ewes equating to just under 4% of the national flock”. Alister urges farmers who are considering trying the Lleyn as a commercial ewe to definitely give them a go as in his words “they meet all the requirements for producing profitable prime lambs”

Lleyn Sheep Proving a Success on Marginal Farm

The Bradley Family, Glenshane Pass, Northern Ireland

When it comes to adverse weather in Northern Ireland the 'Glenshane Pass' has a notorious record as one of the worst hit areas. An area deep into the Sperrin mountains, today this is home to a flock of over 200 Lleyn ewes and three generations of the Bradley Family.

John Bradley together with his son Mickey and his three grandsons Jason, Shane and Patrick farm his land with a continued passion due to the success of this hardy, prolific sheep. Alongside the Lleyn ewe you will find 120 Lanark Blackface or Lanark BF x Lleyn ewes.

Twenty years ago, the farm consisted of all horned sheep. Lanark BF ewes were lambed down in late March and April with all male lambs being sold as stores in the local livestock market. John always had a desire to keep his own ewe lambs as replacements and today this is well recognised within biosecurity guidelines. It was back then, at a point in his farming business when he wanted more return from the farm. John scrutinised his little 'records' book that nearly all us sheep farmers own. He was quick to recognise figures showing his lamb sales and lamb numbers weaned were disappointing and he set out to search for a crossing sire to initially bolster lambing percentages. It was this attraction that naturally made John purchase a Lleyn tup to service a small percentage of his Lanark ewes. The first crop of ewe lambs were retained and lambed down as shearling ewes. Immediately his lamb numbers increased, and these lambs commanded a higher price in the store ring that autumn.

Since then, the Lleyn tup has always been used and now the farm is home to slightly more than 200 purebred Lleyn ewes. When asked about the advantages of the Lleyn sheep the Bradley family are quick to recognise two main attributes. The Lleyn ewes produce more lambs, and the male lambs demand a typical £20 head more, over the horned lamb in the store ring. For these reasons alone, the Lleyn breed now holds a stronghold within the future of the farm.

January 2021 scanning results showed one empty ewe in 213 Lleyn ewes scanned. The use of the Dorset teaser tups shows a typical 70% of ewes mated in the first 10 days. This can lead to a busy lambing period, but it also has an advantage with wet adoption and the fact that most farmers like Mickey Bradley in Northern Ireland today are taking time off their work at this time of year. The advantage of the Lleyn ewe for the Bradleys does not stop there as they note the fact that the Lleyn ewe will very often accept a foster lamb from any other breed.

Spring 2021 brought changes to many households and businesses with the Covid pandemic.

Mickey temporarily closed his mechanising business, under government guidance. With his three sons at home more help than usual was available for the upcoming lambing season. It resulted in a higher than usual lamb crop and the three boys were experiencing first-hand life within the lambing shed. When asked how they compared the Lleyn ewe to the Lanark ewe at lambing, Shane at nine years of age was quick to say they weren't 'as mad' and the lambs born where 'up quick to suckle'. Not something that probably helped the lad with his home schooling but a point to note for those who are looking for a reduced workload at lambing time. The Lleyn ewe with her great mothering ability, docile nature and lambs that just want to get up and go puts this breed of sheep in an advantage to most at this time of year.

Ewes at scanning time

Preparation for the lambing season begins mid-October with the introduction of the teaser tups, followed by the selected tups per batch of ewes some 14 days later. Tups are matched to the age of the ewes, and all are colour coordinated to assist in the record keeping at lambing time. Each tup will typically stay with this batch of sheep throughout his time on the farm. Ewes are pregnancy scanned at approximately 90 days and separated accordingly. Singles are sent back to the mountain and twins are then kept on the lower parts of the farm albeit this is still 700 – 850 feet above sea level. Triplet ewes are never in high numbers but these will get the best grass available with an introduction to concentrates when required. All sheep go to the lambing sheds at point of lambing.

Singles born are generally moved from their individual pens within hours and over the next 2 weeks they make their way through the picturesque Sperrin Mountains to an altitude of 1100 ft. Grazing alongside the single rearing horned ewe, both will stay here till the following tugging season. All ewes rearing twins will get the best grass available to them and as John recalls we hope that this spring brings better grass growth than the spring of 2021. Concentrates are typically fed to the sheep pre-lambing at a rate of 125g/day for single bearing ewes and 250 g/day for twin bearing ewes for 4- 6 weeks. Due to lack of grass in spring 2021 concentrates were fed to the twin rearing ewes up to the first week in May at a typical rate of 300g/day.

Lambs are weaned at 120 days and the male lambs sent to the local livestock market as stores. Ewe lambs will go to the better grass on the farm and stay here until early the following year. Early February sees the best of them selected and sent back to the hill as replacements. The remainder are sold as fat lambs at a time when market prices are strong.

John together with his grandson Jason have a liking for the Lanark sheep and their ability to perform on the more marginal farmland. Running the Lleyn ewe alongside them and with a mind -set that all ewes are treated the same, he can see first-hand any advantages. The Lleyn ewe will generally have a better cull value and typically have a higher body score at any time of the year. With more lambs per ewe and a lamb that dictates a £20/head more the farm is showing a better return. John comments on the Lleyn lamb having a better growth rate and has the ability to reach higher weights at time of sale. When asked about how he believes the Lleyn ewes produce a higher weaning weight of lamb per ewe, he puts it down to the natural ability of the ewe to produce milk but more so ram selection. John does not purchase any female sheep and says ram selection is everything to the success of his farm.

John looks for a strong Lleyn tup that will continue to introduce power into his sheep. He is looking to breed ewes that can lamb down two strong lambs that have what he refers to as a 'bit of bone'. Ewes do not spend long inside due to demand for space in the lambing shed and the lambs need to be fit to go out soon after birth. Furthermore, a stronger cull ewe demands a higher price. He selects a tup which displays good muscling and growth rate. 'The bigger my store lambs and better muscled they are at 120 days the better.' John's early bloodlines within his Lleyn tups would belong to the Kennedy and Edwards families, but more recently he has purchased from breeders Barry Latimer and Declan Mullan.

What does the future hold for the Bradley family and Lleyn sheep...?

John and Mickey are more than happy with the performance of the Lleyn ewe on their farm. This medium sized ewe has proven to possess longevity, hardiness with the ability to rear two strong lambs at 1000ft. We have increased our store lamb sale price and we can offer more for sale.

My final question to the Bradley family - would you ever consider crossing the Lleyn ewe back to the horned ram for the cross breed ewe? 'That would defeat everything we have achieved and to buy a good tup would cost us considerably more money than a Lleyn'

The Lleyn sheep is a twenty-year-old success story for the Bradley family so surely the Lleyn tup could offer the same success to other similar enterprises.

Lleyn Being Noticed on Marginal Land

W R & J Barron, The Deans Farm, Muggleswick, Consett, Co Durham

As you drive through the idyllic North Durham countryside looking across the moors which is dominated by traditional hill bred sheep you may be surprised to suddenly find a flock of Lleyn ewes with North Country Cheviot lambs at foot. Owned by the Barron family consisting of Richard and Jean Barron along with son Shaun and his partner Georgia Brawn who farm the Deans Farm, Muggleswick, Consett, Co Durham. Shaun Barron commented we have found the Lleyn performs equally well if not better than traditional hill bred sheep on our high exposed farm.

The Family have been at Deans Farm for thirty years and the other farm in the enterprise being White Hall which has been in the family for fifty years. The total acreage of the units are 570 acres running from 800 to 1100 feet. The livestock on the farms consist of 220 Lleyn Ewes, 260 Swale Ewes, 25 Bluefaced Leicester Ewes, 100 Mule Ewe Hoggs, 90 Pedigree South Devon Suckler Cows. There is 400 acres of SDA (severely disadvantaged) grassland, 150 Acres of moorland, with average rain fall of 30- 40 plus inches, and clay soil.

The Lleyn flock is kept outside on grass throughout the winter with hay offered during poor weather conditions. Minimal concentrates are given pre and post lambing according to scanning results. The Barron family like the Lleyn as they perform well outside on good quality grass areas on the farm which has been conserved in late summer and autumn.

Richard Barron commented “we like Lleyn ewes as they are great mothers that milk well with the lambs growing quickly which means we can sell the wether lambs at 14 – 18 weeks at between 40 – 45 kg the lambs always sell well at Darlington Mart as they are white faced with tight skins – this fits into our commercial sheep unit as it means we can sell lambs earlier than from the traditional hill breeds”.

North Country Cheviot Ram running with Lleyn ewes

The jewel in the crown for the Barron team is the North Country Cheviot cross Lleyn ewe lambs. Shaun said “we have a demand for these ewe lambs from regular buyers as they perform well on lowland units when put to any terminal sire, the ewe lambs are great mothers being prolific, milky, with tight skins”

The Barron’s plan is to expand the Lleyn flock and breed their own replacements as at the moment ewe lambs are purchased privately from a local breeder, which are not put in lamb and brought in to the flock as shearlings. Lleyn are also purchased from Society sales to replenish the flock.

Shaun said “we are very much a family run business with everyone contributing to the success and management of the enterprise. Our Lleyn flock tends to be a talking point among neighbouring farmers with traditional hill breeds but since the first Lleyn arrived eight years ago, more people are taking notice how well they perform on our marginal land.

Lleyn Proving Successful for Low-Input, High Out-Put System

Batch of shearling rams

Wills Estate, Rutland, Leicestershire Flock 1704 – Leighfield Lleyns

The Leighfield flock of Lleyn which is part of the Wills Estate, Rutland is owned by the Allen Family. Trevor Border who has worked there for 32 years is the Head Shepherd. Across 1,750 acres of Leicestershire countryside, he runs 1,000 commercial Lleyn alongside 200 registered Lleyn ewes. Approximately 400 acres of the estate is woodland and cover crops.

Trevor Border - Head Shepherd

The Estate Management decided to move the farm from arable to grassland in 2004 with sheep being chosen as the viable option. At first indoor lambing was trialled with a mule flock. Experimenting with outdoor lambing saw a purchase of a small number of Lleyn from Ross on Wye Mart. They were lambed outdoors in May and proved very successful hence the numbers were increased.

Lambing continues to take place in May on a low-cost outdoor basis. The scanning rate is around 180%. Hay is fed in December and January outside. All sheep are housed for approximately a month while scanned and sheared. They are sheared with a cover comb (i.e. leaves 10mm layer of fleece after shearing) to protect for the first 48 hours. Trevor says "We shear late February/early March depending on the weather. If we didn't do them at this time, they would be done late June/early July when maggots can become a problem. We find that shearing with lambs at foot can mean more stress and labour, this is the best thing we have done for outdoor lambing in May".

Trevor reveals a huge mantra across both the commercial and registered flock is production with minimum input. All sheep are run as one with no additional feed used. Grass is key! A tool used to help achieve the flock's goal of efficiency is Signet Recording. The flock are members of the Performance Recorded Lleyn Breeders group. Trevor strongly believes that by using EBV and FEC (faecal egg count) information he is able to select sheep that perform on the grass-fed system.

200 registered ewes make up the nucleus flock which breeds replacement rams and females.

Firstly for the flock but also for onwards sale in the autumn. They can regularly sell 15 – 20 registered rams each year. The Leighfield flock has found a sound market for commercial breeding females which much of their own marketing done and many returning customers on the books. When asked why customers return, Trevor reports “Customers come back because our sheep are bred to work off grass alone. We have data to back them up. Another strong selling point is being a closed flock and being able to offer large numbers from one location.” When selecting females for flock replacements Trevor looks for a good straight leg in all four corners, tight coat, conformation and the ability to achieve this off grass alone. The only animals bought in are stock rams, bought off farm with performance data to help back up what he sees. “Good EBV’s and FEC’s alongside conformation and I want to be able to see it is doing it from grass. It is good to see a willingness to work but also longevity” says Trevor.

In the commercial flock they are using the New Zealand Texel over the Lleyn ewes, the Lleyn is then put back over these females. Recently they have been experimenting with the Tefrom, a composite breed developed in New Zealand from the Texel, East Friesian and Romney. It remains early days to discuss results but good growth has been noted. The females will be kept to see how they perform. The crossbred out of the Lleyn is then put back to the Lleyn to retain the hardiness and maternal traits. Trevor notes “the Lleyn is a good all round sheep which is very efficient, hardy, long lived and does very well on our grass system. It can produce a good type of lamb when crossed with the terminal breeds”.

With the commercial flock they aim to sell lambs off grass at 18-20kg on a deadweight system. Some heavier lambs will be sold live weight. They start selling lambs at the end of August and without feeding have a steady supply through until April.

With the topical talk of climate change, Trevor believes he has the business in a strong position. “For the past ten years we have worked hard to build a low input, high output system. We moved into the mid-tier Stewardship Scheme to mitigate the downturn in BPS payments. Part of this sees the introduction of herbal leys to help cut down on the reliance of imported Nitrogen. Also providing a diet that finishes lambs quicker than the standard grass-based system. I believe we can stand on our own two feet when the subsidy payments have gone. We are running a low stocking rate alongside better grazing methods of old pastures generating a lower carbon footprint. We have reduced medicine use hence antibiotics and wormers. Sheep concentrates have been removed. We don’t use Nitrogen fertiliser, we use a swardlifter and aerator. A little chemical spray is used to control weeds such as thistles and nettles”. Also putting the flock in a strong position is the closed flock element and push for efficient ewes.

Lleyn Suit Work-Life Balance

Fergal Leonard, Offaly, Ireland. Flock 2830

Fergal Leonard, the Southern Ireland Club Secretary farms at Garbally, Blueball, Tullamore, Co.Offaly. He works as a full-time secondary school teacher, teaching woodwork and drawing. From a farming background of dairy, beef and sheep, Fergal has always had a keen interest in farming from a young age.

Fergal was first introduced to Lleyn sheep when his friend Alan McDonald asked him to help him show sheep for the 2017 season. Despite having no experience in showing, Fergal was not one to shy back from an opportunity to try something new. He was very quickly bitten by the showing bug and by the end of the season, having enjoyed the experience so much, decided he wanted to start his own flock of Lleyn. Later that year he purchased five hoggets at the Roscommon Society Sale and three more ewes from the in-lamb club sale.

After a successful lambing in Spring 2018 and a good show season, Fergal continued to build his flock and purchased more breeding stock at the Roscommon sales. That summer, Fergal and Alan took a trip across the water where they visited a number of Lleyn breeders in the UK to purchase a new stock ram. After their visits they purchased a ram from Derek Steen and this ram's progeny are now at the core of Fergal's flock. The highlight of Fergal's showing career to date was when he won first 'All Ireland Ewe Lamb' at the Tullamore Show in 2019. He also won first prize in the club online show in 2021 with his shearling ewe which was judged by Dylan Jones.

Working a full-time job, the Lleyn really suited Fergal's work-life balance as they are low input and low labour. The maternal traits of the Lleyn with milk and great mothering ability makes lambing short and easy, with ewes returning back to grass with lambs at foot two to three days after lambing. This in return reduces additional expenses such as housing, bedding and meal. It reduces labour on the farmer. The high weaning ratio is also a big addition to the number of lambs sold at the end of each year, a trait the Lleyn is well known for.

Currently, Fergal has 65 ewes and continues to expand his flock each year, retaining only the best females to add to his breeding flock. He lambs during the school's mid-term break and sponges his ewes to make his lambing period short and compact to suit his holidays. This has worked well for him in the past and is something he will continue with in future as part of his flock management plan. He is now in a position to sell stock at the Society Sale this year and is looking forward to sale day. He also plans to increase his numbers and replace old ewes that have been culled from the flock with quality home-bred hoggets. He is currently renting all his land and is always looking for more land in order to keep expanding his flock.

There is a great social aspect to showing and being a Society member which has been greatly missed the last two years due to Covid. Shows are a great day out to meet other breeders and farmers. It allows breeders to talk to other farmers, meet new breeders and maybe even learn something new that might assist with their own farming system. If nothing else, it provides a day of leisure off the farm and a bit of craic.

Getting Started on Social Media with Will

Hi, just a little introduction about myself. I am Will Roobottom based in Staffordshire where we farm 500 acres and I manage the flock of 150 registered Lleyne ewes. Having founded the flock in 2015 and new to the breed I was looking for ways first to get to know other breeders but secondly to advertise my stock when selling. As we all know when you are new to the game it is far harder to get noticed. This is what led me to start a Facebook and Instagram account about the flock and in no time the plan worked! I was getting to know other breeders and picking up sales. Really this is where it all started. As interest began to rise my follower base grew and I also started a YouTube channel, showing videos of pretty much everything that goes on at the farm at home. Doing this has given me so many opportunities. I have met loads of interesting and likeminded people as well as picking up hints and tips to help me along the way. But the main thing I am trying to get across is that social media is such a powerful tool and without it I am pretty sure that many people still would not know who I am today.

Did you know that 78% of people selling products using social media are outselling their peers who are not? This means if you are active within social media, you are more likely to sell your stock for a price you are happy with and on average higher prices. On top of this still, there has never been as much interest in farming as now. So why not get started on social media?

Here is a little guide which you can use to help you get started on social media.

7 Steps to Creating a Social Media Account

1. Search Facebook or Instagram in Google (you can do this on your phone, tablet or computer)
2. Click on the top search which will take you to the Facebook/Instagram page
3. Click create an account
4. Enter your details and then click sign up
5. You will now receive an email to confirm you are all setup up and this will direct you back to Facebook/Instagram with your account all set up
6. If you are on Facebook you will then need to create a page. On the left-hand side of Facebook on your computer you will see a tab called pages, click this then click create page.
7. You then fill out the details you would like for your page. These will be for example a page Name of "ABC Lleyne". Click create page and you are done!

Now your account is all setup, you need to get sharing your sheep. Take photos of anything you would like to talk about on your page. For example, if you would like to show off your shearing ewes for sale at the Ross on Wye sale. Take a photo of the group write something about them and post. This can literally be done for anything you do. The more you post the more your page will grow.

I really hope this has helped and can get you started on social media. If you have any questions, feel free to pop me a message to give you a call. If you want any inspiration. My page names are below:

Digital Innovator of the Year - BFA Awards 2021

Congratulations to Will Roobottom for winning Silver in this award. The British Farming Awards (BFA) 2021 are run by Agriconnect, the parent company of the Farmers Guardian.

The background:

Digital innovation in farming is booming and more and more farmers are recognising the benefits of multimedia platforms to grow their business, communicate with new and existing customers and improve overall public perception. From Twitter, Facebook, Instagram and TikTok, to creating websites, podcasts, sharing videos, and even staging virtual events, farmers have become savvy in showcasing their personality alongside their business or product.

What the judges said:

Always looking to develop the farm business, William started his YouTube channel 'Cowley Hill Farm with Will' and shares his working life on social media. William's aim is to educate and inspire the next generation, highlighting the positives of agriculture and what career opportunities are available.

Uploading two videos a week to his YouTube channel and updating his social media daily has led to a very engaged audience.

William understands his audience and is very aware video content has had a surge in views over the last few years on social media platforms.

Using this to his advantage and a work placement at a marketing agency, William picked up the skills, and also through a lot of self-tuition, creates these videos himself. He has also produced YouTube Q&A sessions in which a worldwide audience engaged from people in the US, New Zealand, Slovakia and more.

His dedication to not only creating this content, but also engaging with his audience and keeping them up to date with everything on-farm, is palpable.

British Wool, Promoting the Sustainable Fibre of Wool

As a nation, British shoppers buy more new clothes than any nation in Europe, with people buying twice as many items of clothing as a decade ago.

This 'Fast Fashion' culture means that discarded clothes are piling up in landfill sites and wildlife in our rivers and seas are eating synthetic fibres dislodged in the wash. Government figures indicate that three in five garments end in landfill or incinerators within a year.

So why is British Wool the sustainable choice?

Wool Is Natural - Wool is a protein fibre formed in the skin of sheep, and is thus one hundred percent natural.

Wool Is Renewable - As long as there is grass to graze on, every year sheep will produce a new fleece; making wool a renewable fibre source. British Wool actively work to safeguard the environment and improve efficiency, endeavouring to make the wool industry sustainable for future generations.

Wool Is Biodegradable - Natural fibres biodegrade in soils and aquatic systems, so they don't accumulate in landfill and oceans. So whilst wool will still shed fibres during washing, these fibres will break down naturally, without causing any harmful effects to the environment.

Wool Lasts Longer - Wool is an incredibly complex natural fibre, providing many attributes that plastic fibres cannot match. It's natural crimp and elasticity endures constant wear and compression, and its bulk resists crushing and matting, helping it withstand continuous wear.

Wool Needs Less Washing - Wool naturally absorbs moisture when the atmosphere is damp, and releases it when the atmosphere is dry, supporting less frequent washing, which in turn prolongs the lifetime of garments.

British Wool's mission is to drive sustainable demand to maximise the value of wool for its farmer members. British Wool does this by working in conjunction with downstream manufacturers promoting the importance of British Wool as a fibre. Some recent developments include:

The British Wool licensee scheme continues to grow in strength with several new brands committing to use British wool over the last year.

British Wool launched an e-Commerce website to promote and sell licensees' wool products direct to the consumer.

Worked with manufacturers to launch new British Wool ranges across a wide range of products, including a major new 100% British wool carpet range for the residential segment.

Leading online retailer of wool products for the sleep environment Woolroom joined the British Wool Traceable Scheme.

Iconic premium brand Fred Perry launched 3 new styles of knitwear using British wool.

Continue to work with both industry and universities to support and research the development of innovative new uses for wool.

The Lleyn Ewe – Suitable Sustainable Sheep

Ernie Richards

Wernoog

Hay on Wye, Herefordshire

‘Climate crisis’ is an all too familiar phase we are hearing on a daily basis. Agriculture seems to be accused as being a main culprit. As we know this is not the full picture as other industries are considerably higher in emitting emissions.

However, agriculture globally is a vast industry and within it many sectors all producing different levels of emissions. Sheep farming is known to be a low-level emitting sector. This said, we all need to play a part in securing the future to control the climate crisis by maintaining our high standards in producing food for the ever-growing population.

As food producers, sheep farmers need to be doing their best to rear livestock in the most environmentally sustainable and cost-effective way. For generations farmers have been custodians of the countryside, managing the land to produce food whilst maintaining our rich environment. Livestock farming, as we know reaps many environmental benefits within the UK especially our topography and climate provides the perfect landscape to have varied farming systems.

Generally, sheep grazing less productive areas means they provide maximum utilisation to produce food. The grazing pattern of sheep create a good balance to encourage biodiversity whilst providing the soil with valuable enriched elements.

The Lleyn is a prime example of how a breed of sheep is suitability sustainable in producing products whilst ensuring minimal emissions are released. Capturing carbon within its wool, sheep provide both a high fibre product and a high protein food source which can have an extremely low carbon footprint.

As an efficient breed, the Lleyn provides longevity and low maintenance whilst being productive. Utilising the land extremely well, the Lleyn is a multipurpose ewe with strong maternal traits. Good mothering ability, ease of lambing, and milkiness, gives the Lleyn the capability to be highly sustainable. Good durability means Lleyn ewes can adapt to varied farming systems and diverse environments and are renowned for being kept at higher stocking rates with an ability to reach a lambing percentage of 200%.

Our farming system operates a closed high health status flock of Lleyn which are managed at an altitude of the 1100ft. The Lleyn is the perfect breed to suit our upland grassland farm where sheep farming produces maximum food off the marginal land we manage.

We are entirely grassland, producing our own forage to supplement during the winter months. We are actively ensuring we are being as carbon friendly as possible by having a low input, high output system.

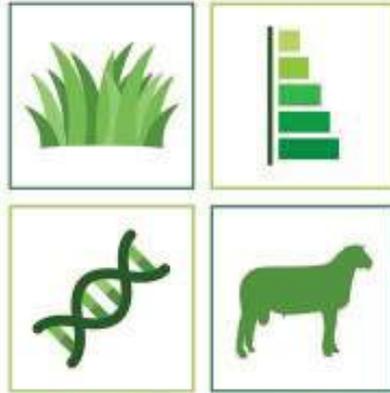

In order to reduce our carbon footprint, we are actively reducing our purchased concentrate feed. Annually, we reseed up to 10 hectares by growing swedes/turnips as break crops. Growing root crops has proved to be a successful feed for our ewes pre lambing. Additionally, within the reseed rotation, we use an Italian Rye Grass and Forage Rape mix. This short-term ley is to help us increase the number of prime lambs we finish. Producing our own forage and root crops means we produce good quality protein reducing the need for imported concentrates contained in rape seed meal and soya.

The excellent maternal nature of the Lleyn can also offer a way to offset carbon. By lambing a proportion of our ewe lambs, we are positively offsetting our carbon emissions sooner than if she was lambing as a yearling. By this, we offset her methane over more years by producing a lamb in her first year of life.

With the ever-growing pressures to 'go green,' it means as sheep producers we need to look at ways to ensure we can be as carbon neutral as possible. I feel the key to sustainability is finding the right balance by fine tuning different elements of our farming system by making it more efficient whilst embracing the environmental benefits to help sheep farming feed the growing population.

PERFORMANCE
LLEYN BREEDERS

We are a group of Lleyn breeders who strongly believe that performance recording leads to improved efficiency and greater profitability. By selecting superior animals that can produce more from less will make Lleyn sheep one of the most sustainable breeds of the future. Our work on identifying individuals that are more resistant to worms could offer long term benefits to the global sheep industry.

Our mission is:

To use and promote performance recording and genetics as a tool to improve net margins.

To become involved with research projects that will in the long term boost profitability for the commercial sheep farmer.

To encourage Lleyn breeders both pedigree and commercial to performance record and invite them to join PRLB.

Sheep, Landscape & Biodiversity

Dan Jones,
Parc Farm, Great Orme
North Wales

I farm the Great Orme, a limestone mountain that rises a mere 207 meters above sea level, but sometimes feels closer to 2007 meters. This rocky outcrop is a recognised Country Park, Special Area of Conservation, a Site of Special Scientific Interest and part of the Heritage Coast. With views right across the Irish Sea and Anglesey in the short distance, little wonder this rugged landscape attracts over 600,000 visitors a year, bring its own challenges.

But the Great Orme is far more than just a tourist attraction. It has been my home for the past five years, along with my family, my 650 ewes and my 5 working sheepdogs. I am halfway through the Farm Business Tenancy of 145 acre Parc Farm, extending to 900 acres of grazing rights for 416 ewes plus followers on the hill.

I was brought up on a small family farm on Anglesey and farming has always been my passion. My parents wanted me to do anything but farm, but farming was all I wanted. I went to Llysfasi College and then on to Aberystwyth University to study Agriculture. Without the opportunity to go directly into farming myself I took to a range of jobs that kept me in the industry, from contract shearer to abattoir worker and anything in-between. At 25 I got my big break, renting 33.5 acres from my boss of the time and self-appointed farming advisor, for which I will always be grateful.

The National Trust bought Parc Farm in 2015, halting the plan to convert the 150acre farm into a golf course. Instead, the woolly residents stayed, grazing rights were maintained, and priority given to the landscape and biodiversity.

As a traditional upland sheep farmer I farm in a 'nature first' way, meaning food production is sustainable, non-intensive, and goes hand in hand with looking after the environment. I follow the seasons, rather than go against them, and like generations of Welsh Upland Farmers before me, I don't use inorganic fertilizer (sigh of relief) and supplement the sheep as little as possible to produce a quality product.

As the new tenant, one of my priorities was to introduce a hefted flock to the Great Orme. The hefted flock would need to work as Conservation Grazing tools, thrive in the harsh exposed environment as well as produce a quality product within my farming system. After discussions with the National Trust Ecologist I eventually decided on two breeds, the Herdwick and the Lleyn.

My time as a shearer taught me that there are variations within breeds. It was important to me to select what I would call traditional breed types. 340 Lleyn of a medium size were chosen with a good tight coat to help keep out the winter weather. I bought foundation females from the Dewi Ellis, the Cernioge flock. Rams from Wynne Davies, the Bronallt flock and the late Miss Nia Williams of the Fadog flock. I also bought 65 Herdwicks.

The system I run now sees the majority of females kept as replacements, with the surplus sold as breeding ewe lambs. Males are castrated at birth, finished off grass from August to October, and then sold through the Sainsburys 'Taste the Difference' scheme. By October any remaining stock are housed and supplemented for finishing, something I am aiming to do less and less of each year.

Both breeds have done their job superbly here. The Herdwick's graze the rockier parts whilst the Lleyn tend to stick to the Calcareous grasslands. The Lleyn are working well here at Parc Farm and going forward, I think the Lleyn have a big part to play in conservation and food production in the UK.

High energy, high performance with sugar beet feed

Sugar beet will prove an excellent high energy feed option for sheep this year, with the British crop averaging around 18% sugar in Supaflow and Bag Supabeet.

Charlotte Ward, ruminant nutritionist at Trident Feeds, says the high sugar content will help maximise rumen fermentation efficiency and drive performance.

“There are year-round benefits of feeding sugar beet to ewes and lambs. Alongside a high energy content, typically 12.5 to 13 MJ ME/kg DM, it provides a key source of digestible fibre which is vital to enhance rumen efficiency and feed intakes.”

Charlotte says meeting nutritional requirements throughout the production year can be difficult on grass-based diets alone. “Supplementary feeding of sugar beet feed can provide the extra energy required, particularly building up reserves at tupping and lambing.

“While it’s important to manage overall ewe body condition to maintain productivity throughout the year, if ewes are in poor condition at tupping, there’ll be a decrease in ovulation rate. This will affect overall lambing percentage, a critical business parameter that has a major impact on profitability.

“Flushing ewes with a high energy supplementary feed such as sugar beet for three to six weeks prior to tupping, can help bring stock up to the right condition to maximise fertility,” says Charlotte.

The benefit of sugar beet feed can then continue throughout pregnancy and in the run-up to lambing.

“As the foetus grows, so does the ewe’s nutrient demands, and feeding an energy dense supplement is an excellent way to help meet these requirements and avoid the loss of body reserves.”

Post lambing, the ewe’s energy demands switch to producing high levels of quality milk. If these are not met, intakes and rumen function could be compromised, Charlotte explains.

“Digestible fibre is required to balance cereal-based diets to avoid rumen acidosis or to complement lush spring grass. The latter is typically low in structural fibre and high in soluble sugars so doesn’t provide the rumen microbes with enough structural carbohydrate to function effectively. Providing sugar beet feed can help prevent this.”

She adds feeding digestible fibre to lambs will also prove beneficial. “To enhance growth rates, lambs should be encouraged to eat dry feed as soon as possible to aid rumen development. Feeding a sugar beet-based creep feed has been shown to increase lamb growth rates, allowing them to be finished and sold up to two weeks earlier.

“Feeding sugar beet feed is cost-effective and will pay dividends at every stage of production,” concludes Charlotte.

New Simcro VS injector

Safety first when vaccinating cattle, sheep or pigs!

Designed from the ground up to meet stringent compliance and safety requirements initially for pigs. The Simcro VS Injector is ideal for sheep too and has incredible balance to ensure accuracy reducing user fatigue with a revolutionary vertical chamber which helps to expel air and see any unwanted debris. The needle guard is also a key feature but as the device is modular, you can interchange as required. This ensures you can administer your vaccines and treatments with optimum animal health welfare, operator safety and treatment efficacy. But do not take our word for it!

Dale & Robbie Wilson in Powys in Wales tested our new Simcro VS injector for us and seemed impressed;

“Yes it went great, very easy to use, compact, and I really liked using the safety needle component. The fact you can lock it, meant I was able to drench at the same time, and have it locked in my pocket before injecting a race full.”

The Simcro VS is a fixed dose injector so the user needs to choose the type of medication they will be delivering beforehand, many sheep vaccines are a 2ml or 5ml dose rate. The device is easily converted from a bottle mount to a tube fed injector and needle guard or non-needle guard options or vice versa. 1" or 1.5" needle guards can also be added as required. A self-tenting -needle-guard front cap is being developed and will allow sub cutaneous injection single handed and fits any existing VS injector.

Other variable dose injectors are available in the Simcro range too.

Simcro VS Bottle mount injector

Kit includes;

- 1 x 0.5ml, 1ml, 2ml or 5ml fixed dose bottle mount injector
- 1 x 20ml bottle mount shroud

Online Flock Book & Registry

The Grassroots Online Flock Book & Registry gives members of the Society access to the pedigree registration database. You can view animal details, register ewe lambs, notify rams for inspection, record deaths, do transfers and request Ram DNA kits.

You can find access via the Society website, look out for the link in the top right corner.

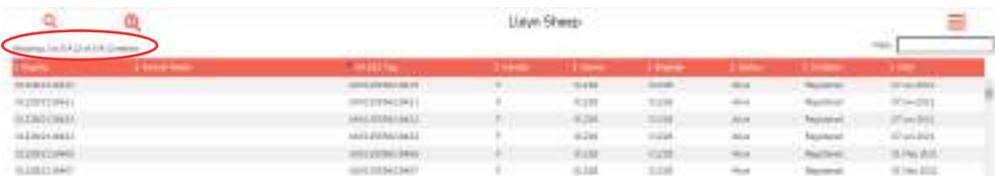

Logging In

Access is for members only so you must be a fully paid up member. If you miss your membership payment on 1st January you may find access temporarily denied until your membership is settled.

You will need your MEMBER NUMBER and PASSWORD to access. These were issued when you joined the Society. Please contact the Society if you have mislaid and need this information.

The screen opens with all the registered animals in your ownership. They may be sorted by age. Click on any column header to re-sort. Top left tells you how many animals are showing in the list.

Type anything into the filter box in the top right corner to filter the list.

Search

Search buttons:

To search animals on whole database

To search for people on the whole database.

Society Rules

Revised April 2010

REGISTRATION

1. All Lleyn sheep, including ram lambs, used for pedigree breeding must first have been registered with the Society. In addition, all Lleyn sheep offered for sale at Society Sales must be on the Society's register at the time of the sale. Only members may register sheep with the Society and they may only register sheep which they have bred themselves.
2. Rams may only be registered as lambs or yearlings. They are eligible for registration provided that:
 - They have been inspected and approved by the Ram Inspector appointed by the Society in accordance with para 3;
 - They conform to the Society 'Breed Standards';
 - They have been tagged in accordance with para 6;
 - Their sire and dam were registered with the Society at the time of coupling.

Every yearling ram that is passed by the Ram Inspector is passed for the rest of his life and his certificate will be stamped with the words 'passed as a ram' and signed by the Secretary. To be passed for the rest of his life, a ram lamb will need to be re-inspected as a yearling.

A registration certificate will be issued with all ram lambs and yearling rams approved for registration. The certificate should be transferred to any new owner.

Every member has the right to cancel a ram registration but must notify the Secretary in writing and return the registration certificate.

3. Each member will be invited to apply for inspection and registration of ram lambs and yearling rams. The Society will arrange for inspection to take place at specific times and authorised centres throughout the United Kingdom and Eire. The Society will not undertake inspection or registration of ram lambs or yearling rams outside these arrangements.

The Society allows a member to substitute a ram lamb/yearling ram for inspection provided that he or she informs the Secretary fourteen days before the date stipulated in the Secretary's letter inviting entries prior to inspection.

4. Females can be registered in the year of their birth only. Ewe lambs are eligible for registration provided that:
 - They conform to the Society's 'Breed Characteristics';
 - They have been tagged in accordance with para 6.
5. Applications for registration of ewe lambs should reach the Secretary on or before 31st December in the year of birth and must be accompanied by the appropriate fee as determined by the Society.

IDENTIFICATION

6. Identification of Registered Sheep (see para 9 for the situation at Agricultural Shows):

FEMALES

- Starting in 2006, the Society offered two options for identification, one based on tattooing and one on use of a Society tag. In 2009, the Society tag contained not only Society management information (member's flock number, year and individual sheep identification number, e.g. 0460 09 0301) but also carried the member's UK number (or equivalent national information).
- In addition to the requirement to tag one or both ears of all sheep with the information defined by DEFRA (or equivalent national body), the Society requires all ewe lambs born between 2006 and 2009 either (i) to be tattooed in the right ear with the member's flock number or (ii) to be tagged in the right ear with a Society tag. If tattooing has been used, the Society's management information must have been incorporated onto at least one of the tags employed.
- For females born in 2011 onwards please see page 129 for identification requirements.

MALES

- Those registered in 2006 or later should be single or double tagged in accordance with the requirements of DEFRA (or equivalent national body). After being passed by the Society's Ram Inspector, a ram or ram lamb has a unique Society ram tag containing the Society's management placed in the right ear.
 - Members are advised to check with the relevant National body (such as DEFRA) to ensure that they comply with current Government tagging regulations.
7. Flocks should be made available for inspection by a person or persons representing and acting on behalf of the Lleyn Sheep Society to ascertain whether or not the animals included in any flock are of the required standard. Individual ewe lambs or older sheep that are not of the required standard will be refused registration or have their registration cancelled.
 8. All flock owners should maintain records of the rams used, the ewes tupped by each ram and the individual numbers of each of the progeny. The records should be available for inspection by the Society on request.

SHOWING

9. Sheep shown at Agricultural Shows:
 - a. All animals should be shown untrimmed. Light brushing only accepted.
 - b. All animals should be shorn bare after 1st May.
 - c. All animals must be identified with tags in accordance with para 6 with the exception of young stock. Since ewe lambs do not have to be registered with the Society until 31st December and young males do not have to be registered until the early summer of their shearing year, animals younger than this at the time of the show need only be identified as required by DEFRA (or equivalent body).

SALES

10. The Society Council will determine rules and procedures governing the annual Society sales.
11. Sheep presented at the Society Sales must be untrimmed. Moreover, the Society discourages artificial colouring of wool. In the event of any sheep creating inspection difficulties, the vendor may, at the discretion of the Society Sale Inspectors, be asked to wash them.

If a member continues to ignore the rule regarding artificial colouring of wool, then this may trigger a flock inspection of that member's flock.

DISPERSAL SALES

12. If a member wishes to hold a dispersal sale under the auspices of the Society, he or she has one of the following two options:
 - a. The Society will send two inspectors to inspect the member's sheep and if the Society is not involved in any further work, then there will be no cost implication to the member.
 - b. The Society will send two inspectors to inspect the sheep and, if the member wishes the Society to advertise the dispersal sale throughout the sale season, then that member will have to pay commission to the Society at the same rate as charged at all Society Sales.

If the member wishes to hold a dispersal sale under option (b) above, then the member should contact the Society as soon as possible in order that arrangements can be made in good time for inspection and advertising. However, if the flock has to be dispersed in a short period of time due to bereavement, then the Society will do its utmost to assist.

Code of Conduct and Disciplinary Procedures of the Lleyn Sheep Society Ltd.

The above document can be viewed online at www.lleynsheep.com/members1/formdownloads/.

In order to comply with Commission Decision 84/247/EEC, the Lleyn Sheep Society declares that there will be no discrimination between members.

The Lleyn Sheep Society will enter into the breeding book, animals of the same breed that are eligible for entry under the Society's breed criteria, without discrimination on account of their country of origin.

Ewe Lamb Registrations

There are three ways in which you can report your ewe lamb registrations to the Society Office:

Online - via the online Flock Book & Registry

This involves accessing the Flock Book using your membership number and password (see pages 91-93). Do not worry if you have lost or forgotten your password, simply contact the office. Please follow the on-screen instructions and fill in the form on the screen. It enables you to search for the ear tag number of the sire and also the dam (recommended but not compulsory). It takes you to the payment screen when you have finished which enables you to print a remittance slip which you can send to the office with a cheque or you can pay by Paypal.

Spreadsheet - emailed to the office

This method involves emailing the information to the office in a spreadsheet format. It works well with some on-farm software which will help you to export the data, all helping to reduce the need for re-typing or writing. Instructions are available on the website www.lleysnsheep.com or alternatively please contact the office. This system is fantastic at making the registration of large numbers much simpler and quicker for all.

Paper Form

The paper form is still available. This form is sent out to all members in April with the newsletter. It can also be downloaded from the website. Please note that the deadline for paper forms is 31st October. Online & spreadsheets can be sent until 31st December.

ALL EWE LAMBS MUST BE REGISTERED WITH THE SOCIETY IN THE YEAR OF BIRTH

Save Money

All ewe lamb registrations received in the office on or before 31st October will be charged at £1.50 (€1.88) + Vat
Registrations received from 1st November onwards will be charged at £2.00 (€2.50) + VAT each.

Deadline for online & spreadsheet ewe lamb registrations
31st December (Paper registration deadline 31st October)

Ram Lambs

Ram lambs are dealt with differently. Please see the ram lamb information or alternatively please contact the Society for more information.

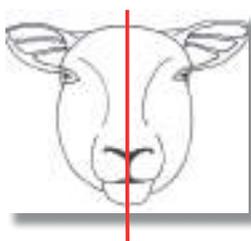

Society Tagging Rules

EWE LAMBS - OPTION ONE

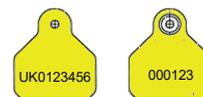

Secondary Tag

- UK/IE No. (eg. UK0123456)
- Individual (ETAS) No (eg. 000123)
- Year of birth (eg. 22 for 2022)

EID Tag

- UK/IE No. (eg. UK0123456)
- Individual (ETAS) No (eg. 000123)

- These tags are to be ordered by the member through their own tag supplier.
- The tag make, design and type is entirely up to the member to choose the one that best suits their system (the diagram above is for demonstration purposes only).
- All ewe lambs sold for breeding must be double tagged as per DEFRA/DARD/Appropriate ministry requirements. (Check requirements outside the UK).
- Lleyn Sheep Society members can register ewe lambs with the Society if they have the Society information (Society flock no. and year born) printed on the secondary tag.

EWE LAMBS - OPTION TWO

A management tag is available from the Society Office. (For use with your normal UK/IE double tagging, hence sheep would have three tags).

You may want to tag your lambs with your normal UK/IE EID double tags. You will then require an additional management tag to carry the Society information (Society flock number and year born). The tag also carries the sequential ETAS number to match your UK/IE tags also the Society logo).

These can only be ordered through the Lleyn Sheep Society Office at an additional cost at time of registration. The individual number on the management tag will have to be matched up to the UK/IE number.

SHEARLING RAMS

The ram must be double tagged as per government requirements. Members who want to register rams will need to enter them for registration/inspection. If the ram passes inspection, the ram will be tagged with a third management tag. This tag will have the Society information on it (Lleyn logo, flock number, year born, and the sequential number which will match up with the animals individual ETAS number).

IMPORTANT NOTICE: The Society strongly recommends that breeders insert a dummy tag (as well as the government double tags) in the right ear of all rams to be inspected (using a tag with a similar pin width). It is suggested this should be done in the winter at this time of year i.e. before Christmas. This tag will be removed at time of inspection and if the ram passes, a Society ram tag will be inserted through the same hole.

The Society also notes the importance of after care of the rams after tagging i.e. ensure animals are checked daily and where necessary apply fly repellent.

Ram Genotype (DNA) Testing Scheme - Understanding the Results

All members are invited to test their rams. The availability of the service coincides with ram inspection entries.

DNA samples are to be collected by the breeder at home.

Sample kits (nasal swabs) will be sent out only once the necessary online application and payment have been processed by the office.

The below information is to help you translate the results:

Failed	NR	No Result- sample failed and new sample required
SCRAPIE GENOTYPE
Scrapie	ARR/ARR	Most resistant
	ARR/AHQ	Resistant, but require careful breeding selection
	ARR/ARH
	ARR/ARQ
	AHQ/AHQ	Little resistance and require careful breeding selection
	AHQ/ARH
	AHQ/ARQ
	ARH/ARH
	ARH/ARQ
	ARQ/ARQ	Susceptible
	ARR/VRQ
	AHQ/VRQ	Highly susceptible
	ARH/VRQ
ARQ/VRQ
VRQ/VRQ
MYOSTATIN RESULT
G/G	Wildtype = non carrier. Sheep like this have 'standard' levels of muscle.
A/G	Carrier = has one copy of the Myomax gene. Therefore the ram has 7% more muscle than non-carriers. He will pass on one copy to half of his progeny (both male and female). The lambs have a 50% or 100% chance of inheriting a second copy from the dam, if she is a carrier with one or two copies herself.
A/A	Double Muscled = has two copies of the Myomax gene. Has 14% more muscle than non-carriers. Every lamb from this ram will carry one copy of the gene. The lambs have 50% or 100% chance of inheriting a second copy from the dam, if she is a carrier with one or two copies herself.

PROLIFICACY RESULT

Most Lleyn rams do not carry either prolificacy gene FecX(G) or FecG(H). The Lleyn has a reputation as being prolific based on a proportion of the ewes (around 5-15%) carrying one or the other genes.

FecX (G)	G/G	Wildtype = non carrier. If he is put to ewes which have not inherited prolificacy genes from their dams, the rams daughters will give the normal 170% lambing that non-gene carriers Lleyn ewes produce.
	A/A	Carrier of the gene. As this gene is on the X-chromosome, ALL his daughters will be gene-carriers and they could average 220-240% lambing. None of his sons will inherit this gene.
FecG (H)	G/G	Wildtype = non carrier. If he is put to ewes which have not inherited prolificacy genes from their dams, the rams daughters will give the normal 170% lambing that non-gene carriers Lleyn ewes produce.
	A/G	Carrier of the gene. As this is not on the sex chromosome, the inheritance by both daughters and sons will be random and unpredictable. The gene will be passed on an average of 50% of the
	A/A	Homozygous Carrier = carries two copies,

It is recommended that gene carrier rams are not be put to prolific ewes who may be gene carriers themselves. They should be used on ewes that normally give singles or twins to minimise the chance of sterile offspring.

Ewes carrying prolificacy genes are important, especially FecX(G) carriers which usually give twins or triplets. Without them, Lleyn would average 170%. FecG(H) carriers can give multiples, triplets, quads, quins and are less desirable.

Please note all the information given above is advice only. The Lleyn Sheep Society accepts no responsibility for the outcome. It is always recommended that if you are looking to follow such guidance, you do your research and if possible obtain expert information and advice.

WHAT IS THIS SCHEME?

The Society is providing breeders with the above Genotype (DNA) Service. Breeders can participate on a voluntary basis. It is open to shearing rams and older, i.e. stock rams. The collection of this DNA will enable breeders/owners of rams to obtain the results for Scrapie Genotype, Myostatin and the Prolificacy gene status.

OWNERSHIP AND USE OF THE INFORMATION COLLECTED

The above results from the DNA analysis will be available for the breeder/owner to use and share as they see fit. The results (genotypes) will be available to see on the animal's record via the Online Flock Book & Registry (accessible by all Society members only via password access).

The Society will retain a copy of the full DNA pattern and may itself, or with partners, 'mine' the data collected for research purposes. If required, it may be used for parentage assessment. Any finding or research that would be published, would see the results made anonymous.

Please be aware of timings. Your DNA collected samples must be returned to the office by the date advertised hence you need to input your registrations in plenty of time to allow the samples kits to be posted to you and then you to return the sample to the office etc. Although every effort will be made by the Society, they can make no guarantee for results being returned by any date i.e. sales.
